 2: Developing
 3: Intermediate
 4: Proficient
 5: Advanced

Language		Average	3.7
Sentence Construction	3	Tip! "Homogeneous" or "Homogenous" Homogeneous: It means consisting of similar parts or having a uniform structure or compositions that are similar in nature, e.g., homogeneous groups, bodies, mixtures, particles, principles, or population. Wrong: The concerns raised by these policies are homogenous in nature. Right: The concerns raised by these policies are homogeneous in nature.
Flow and Transition	4
Word/Phrase Choice	4
Grammar		Average	3.7
Subject-Verb Agreement	3	Tip! Articles with abbreviations: "an" The article "an" is used before abbreviations that start with a vowel sound. For example, "an EMR system" and "an MRI study." In the second example, the first letter of the abbreviation MRI (M) is a consonant. However, it makes an "em" sound when read out, which is a vowel sound. Therefore, the article "an" is used.
Article Usage	4
Tenses	4
Mechanics and Style		Average	3.3
Punctuation	3	Tip! Hyphenation for clarity Sometimes, hyphenation is used with numbers only for the purpose of clarity. For example, Unclear: Cardiomyocytes were plated in 24 well plates. Clear: Cardiomyocytes were plated in 24-well plates. In this example, if the hyphen was not used, then it could be thought that there were 24 "well plates." Inserting the hyphen clarifies that each plate has 24 wells.
